Phlox Subulata, or Creeping Phlox, is a hardy evergreen perennial with creeping habit of growth and moss-like foliage. Excellent for borders, patios, rockeries, banks and ground cover. Likes sunny locations. Does not require a great amount of moisture after it is well established.

Fine for growing outdoors or potting for future counter sales.

We offer the following varieties:

- |                      |   |
|----------------------|---|
| Admiration—   | Cameo pink with white eye. A standard variety of very desirable pink. Very satisfactory.              |
| Alba—         | Pure white flowers. Compact growth with myriad flowers and lovely, lasting green foliage. A sure bet. |
| Astro—        | Deep orchid-rose. A good slightly earlier blooming variety and long lasting.                          |
| Atropurpurea— | Wine red. A well known variety. Not quite as fast grower as our Crimson Beauty.                       |
| Blue Hills—   | Attractive medium blue. Flowers freely. The most popular of the blues.                                |
| Butterfly—    | Lilac blush with purple eye. One of our newer varieties with very showy purple eye. Attractive.       |

Crimson Beauty—Brilliant cyclamen red. Free flowering and a good grower. Our most popular red. Truly an all around good performer.

Dixie Brilliant— Giant carmine red flowers. Not quite as good grower as our Red Wing.

Red Wing— Large glowing red flowers. An excellent grower and profuse bloomer. We are justly proud of this introduction. We consider it the best large flowered red.

Sensation— Bright pink with red eye. A sparkling pink. We think this is one of the loveliest pinks. A good bloomer.
